John Kooiker has moved the old house on 12th St. between River and Central, to West 22nd St., and has begun work on a handsome modern residence.

Peter Timmer, formerly of Holland, ice cream manufacturer, was arrested in Grand Rapids on the charge of making ice cream which was not up to standard.

Rev. E. J. Tunk of the Oostburg Chr. Ref. has declined calls extended to him from Byron Center and from the Ninth street church. Rev. Tunk has been at his present place, his first, three years, and has received a dozen or fifteen calls in that time.

Several of the downtown merchants caught the enthusiasm of the college students over their victory in the relay race, and are displaying of the finish Saturday. Van der Linde & Vissers have a large drawing labelled with the names of the runners which is attracting much attention.

The Crawford Trans. Co. which recently purchased property on the Lake shore near Plummerville, have found that by building out 550 feet they can get a depth of 14 feet of water which will be sufficient for their large boats which will stop on their way to and from Chicago. The pier and warehouse will be started at once.

The new postal card issued by the government are somewhat different in design from the ones which have heretofore been in circulation. The cards are of a light blue tint with bronze blue lettering. The stamp is elliptical in shape and contains the profile portrait of President McKinley against a background of lateral lines.

The most expensive real estate deal ever negotiated was closed by John Kooiker, of the Scott Lagers Lumber company, when 16 feet of choice residence property was sold for $1,000. Mr. Kooiker owns an 82-foot lot opposite Centennial park and sold eight feet on both sides to neighbors for $500 each. A few years ago the entire lot with a house upon it sold for $1,800.

Attorney George E. Kollen of Holland was in town last week to endeavor to settle up the accounts of the Saugatuck Amusement Co. for twenty cents on the dollar, but met with but little encouragement. He tells us that unless the creditors all settle on the basis he offers the concern will be sold for whatever it will bring and the unsecured creditors will get nothing. Many of them are game enough to stick for all or nothing.—Saugatuck Commercial Record.

A bill was recently passed in the lower house of congress which prohibits the pollution of Chicago's water supply through the dumping of dredgings and other refuse into Lake Michigan between the shore and the cribs. The bill makes it unlawful to dump refuse into the lake within eight miles of the shore line unless the deposit is made behind bulkheads or breakwaters. Any person violating the law may be fined not more than $1,000 for each offense.

News of the plight of Benj. Lapidus, who is in jail at Grand Haven awaiting trial on a charge of stealing trousers from Lokker-Rutgers store, has been sent to his family and his brother Samuel has arrived to do what he can in his behalf. He paid several different visits to the accused man at the jail, in company with his attorney, and it is understood that an earnest attempt is being made to straighten out the case. Sheriff Andre believes that Lapidus is responsible for a number of similar thefts in other cities and there is little likelihood that the case against Lapidus will be settled outside of court.

Addie Wolgast, the Cadillac lad, who won the light weight championship of the world when he knocked out Battling Nelson in San Francisco, passed through the city Friday morning en route from Chicago to Grand Rapids. A local man, who rode up to Grand Rapids with the fighter, says that the Cadillac boy why a few years ago was glad to get a $2 engagement, now wears about fifteen diamonds and incidentally has become a great "I am." To hear Wolgast talk one is impressed that he is the only great man fighting today, and all others are mere dubs waiting for him to come along with the knockout thing.—G. H. Tribune.

All the aldermen were present with the exception of Drinkwater and Jellema.

The mayor recommended that the members of the council and city officials enter the G. A. R. encampment parade in body.

Provisions were also made for four more arc lights to be placed in Centennial park, compelling the lovers to seek more congenial and less conspicuous quarters.

The resignation of G. W. Mokma as a member of the bonus committee was accepted and C. Verschure was elected to fill that position.

Drs. Godfrey and Mersen had the time of their lives trying to be elected health officer, it taking 41 ballots which finally resulted in the election of Godfrey. The choosing of a new health officer was brought about by the resignation of Dr. Bruinsma who was elected to succeed Dr. Boot at the last meeting of the council, but owing to a technical defect in the diploma of Dr. Bruinsma, he could not qualify.

Wagner Concert Tonight

The musical feature at Carnegie Hall this evening, promises to be a rare treat. Everything that could be done to make this a musical success has been accomplished, and from the work in the past, Holland may well be proud of the Wagner Chorus, for aside from the chorus members, rendered by the chorus, additional talent well worth the price of admission alone has been offered at each concert and it is promised that in the occasion nothing shall be lacking in this respect.

Miss Ruth Ann Carrier, one of Grand Rapids best entertainers will assist in reading selections. Her first appearance in Holland will no doubt attract many.

Mr. Helder has been prevailed upon to sing. Many requests have been made that he favor the audience with a few numbers at the next Wagner concert. It has never been anything but a rare pleasure for Mr. Helder to sing in his home town, but as his voice is in constant use while leading the chorus, it leaves him practically unfit for solo work.

However, on this occasion he has promised to favor the audience with his best. The tickets have been going very rapidly but there are still some very desirable 35c seats left.

Another Held for Burglary

Another Holland young man has been arrested on the charge of being implicated in the burglary of DeJongh's store, for which Johnny Vos and Harold Dry have already been arrested. Tim Tijstema was arraigned before Justice Vander Meulen Thursday afternoon by Sheriff Andre. The lad pleaded not guilty and his bail was fixed at $1,000, which was furnished by his father and M. Notier. Tijstema vigorously denies the allegation and insists that he was in Otsego at the time. He has engaged Diekema & Kollen to defend him.

The new buildings will be erected just south of the Swift cottage on a high bluff overlooking the lake and will be completed in two weeks by Frank Dyke of Holland who has taken the contract.

Two other cottages will also be built on the grounds this season.—Saugatuck Commercial Record.

Central Park

Friday, the thirteenth, had no unlucky significances for Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Zaalmink, who celebrated their golden wedding on that day at their home here. Fifty years ago the couple were wedded in the little chapel on the Graafschaap road and made their honeymoon journey across Macatawa bay in a rowboat and over the sand hills to a log cabin home on Lake Michigan shore, three miles north of Ottawa Beach, which in those pioneer days gave no promise of becoming a great resort.

Friday night the aged couple was surprised by their children, who remembered them with a beautiful gift. Later a dinner in their honor was given at the home of J. J. Rutgers.

Mr. and Mrs. Zaalmink were members of the VanRaalte colony and came here in 1847. In 1890 Mr. Zaalmink platted and developed Central Park, one of the best known of the Black Lake resorts and has always been active in business life. NO REASON FOR IT

When Holland Citizens Show the Certain Way Out

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes or any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Holland citizen says:

Thomas Boven, lumber salesman, of 151 W. 14th St., Holland, Mich., says: "For some time I was afflicted with kidney complaint and I suffered severely from pains in the small of my back. My back ached intensely at night and I was subject to dizzy spells. The least cold I caught settled in my kidneys and made me feel worse. Some time ago I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills and in a week they relieved me. The contents of one box effected a cure and now I have no trouble whatever from my kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

DRAWS PICTURE AS SPIRIT GUIDES

WOMAN GIVES CREDIT FOR HER
WEIRD WORK TO AN ANCIENT EGYPTIAN.

FRIENDS PRAISE DRAWINGS

Mrs. George D. Field of Minneapolis, Who Knew Nothing of Art, Influenced by Severian Who Flourished 3,000 Years Ago.

Minneapolis, Minn.—From a condition of absolute lack of knowledge of drawing or of the rudiments of art to an ability to produce pictures remarkable for their wealth of detail and weirdness of conception sums up in a few words the art career of Mrs. George D. Field, 317 Twenty-second street E., whose work has been the talk and wonder of all her friends and especially her fellow members of the Spiritualist church of which her husband, George D. Field, a piano man, is the head.

For all her work and the praise bestowed upon it by friends Mrs. Field says to Severian, an Egyptian who flourished 3,000 years ago, belongs the credit.

Through this spirit directly, or as he directs many subordinate spirits, does she work. With Severian guiding her right hand or controlling it through the lesser entities of the spirit world, Mrs. Field produces drawings with an ordinary pencil which have attracted the attention of some of the art experts of New York.

Throughout all her work is apparently the influence of Egyptian art. In practically every representation of ancient Egyptians, male or female, the peculiarities of the headdress are marked. Mrs. Field has carried out every detail thereof with great faithfulness. Into the dress upon every head she has drawn appear all the distinctive features which make that part of Egyptian art so much a feature in itself.

Hidden away in these head-dresses at all angles are tiny faces, usually of women. A casual glance does not always reveal them. Careful study brings them out in surprising number. In some drawings of other figures, some of them almost weird and some even of the goblin type, the tiny faces appear again, every one having an individuality of expression that makes a great impression.

One of the finest of the drawings is that of a great bird as large proportionately as the fabled roc. Close inspection shows the form to hold a

The latest picture is that of a great dog, in the curves of which are hidden faces which, though no more than white and black as produced by a pencil, show beauty.

The impulse—the call of the spirits—to draw may come upon her at any time, though usually it comes at night at eight o'clock. Sometimes she works through until three o'clock in the morning. Three nights a week are, as a rule, devoted to drawing. Sometimes she will complete a figure at one sitting, other times two or three are necessary to finish the subject.

Mrs. Field does not call these sitting trances, though it is a fact that every outward physical sign indicated that she was enthralled by Severian.

"Two and a half years ago," Mrs. Field said, "I knew no more about drawing than does anyone who has never had any instruction or never drew anything, even as a child, or who felt no interest whatever in drawing or art. I began to feel a penchant for writing. It seemed that my hand wanted to write something. My arm would begin to move and the fingers would seek to grasp a pen or pencil. I would take up a pencil and would write, but the spirits preferred that I draw, and so draw I did."

BUTTER MENTIONED IN BIBLE

Genesis Has First Account of the Use of This Now Widely Popular Delicacy.

The first mention of butter occurs in Genesis XVIII, in the account of the entertaining of three angels by the prophet Abraham. Abraham's wife, Sarah, had been set to make cakes, and Abraham "ran unto the herd, and fetched a calf tender and good," and it was dressed. When all was ready for the feast, we are told in the eighth verse of the chapter quoted "And he (Abraham) took butter and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat." The butter here referred to was, however, not the same as the butter which is so widely used in the western countries today, but is said to have been more in the nature of curdled milk. Probably olive oil occupied the same position in the dietary of those days that butter does among us. It is believed by the Arabs that the process of making butter was divinely revealed to Abraham, who handed the knowledge of it to the world through his posterity; others assert that when Hagar, with her child, was sent away by Abraham and was perishing with thirst in the wilderness, an angel brought her a refreshing draft of this "oriental nectar," which has ever since been held in the highest esteem by all true Ishmaelites.

FOUR CHILDREN AT PRAYER

Peculiar Petitions to the Throne of Grace Made Without Intentional Irreverence.

The late Bishop Foss at a dinner at his Arch street residence in Philadelphia, talked in an interesting way one evening of children's prayers.

"That a study of evil—in novels or plays—teaches us to avoid evil," he said, "is a very doubtful theory. A Bala mother told her little boy one day of the children of Israel and their worship of the golden calf, and the next day she found the urchin in the stable praying to his pony.

"A little girl was bidden to return thanks in her prayers for the healthy birth of a baby brother. She did so, concluding the prayer reproachfully with: 'But, Lord, we needed a motor car far more.'

"A boy of seven showed a spirit we might all emulate when, in the midst of a storm, he prayed: 'Please, God, don't hurt me! I'm only a very, very little boy.'

"Another boy, as he rose from his knees at his bedside, was reminded that he 'hadn't prayed for grandma's safety.'

"What, he cried, 'Has she got one too? And yet you say little boys can't manage them!'"—Los Angeles Times.

What Suggestion Will Do.

There is nothing that plays so important a part in the daily life of men and women as does suggestion, says H. Addington Bruce in the Delineator. No matter how many setbacks come, keep repeating to yourself optimistic auto-suggestions. Repetition is one of the most powerful instruments of suggestion. There is a great truth underlying the familiar saying: "As a man thinketh, so is he." Not only the people with whom you associate, but the books you read, the clothes you wear, the pictures on your bedroom wall, the very wallpaper itself, convey to you suggestions which have an influence in the making of your character, the shaping of your ideals, the determining of your life. See to it that, so far as possible, you banish the tawdry, the coarse, and the garish from your sight. Surround yourself with objects of beauty. Keep your clothes neat and clean, but do not, as so many people seem to do, regard them as your chief aim in life. Be especially solicitous with regard to your choice of books.

Advantages of a Cook.

When the woman went in to see her Bavarian neighbor another woman sat there. The Bavarian failed to introduce her. Finally the other woman got up and went in the kitchen. Then the Bavarian explained:

"She's a cook," she said. "One of my friends I used to have when I was a cook, too. She was dwelling how day waited on her. She did not have to deal with bad odors, or wash de lettuce or nothing. It was all done for her. Den besides dad, she get dirty dollars a mont. Now, you! You work 'ferry hardt, undt by de endt off de mont, do you haif so much as dirty dollars leftt offer? Is it? Yes?"

"Hardly," admitted the woman, sadly. "Vel, den," her Bavarian neighbor said.

An Ingenious Swindle.

An ingenious swindle by a palmist calling herself Mary Andre was successfully operated at Trieste recently. When she examined the hand of well-to-do ladies she generally predicted some impending misfortune, and explained this was very likely due to their possessing some unlucky jewel. A number of her clients trusted the palmist with their jewelry in order that she might discover which was the offending stone. Frau Andre must have had a large clientele, for she suddenly disappeared from the Austro-Hungarian city with $25,000 worth of this jewelry and has not been since heard of.

How Big are the Waves?

Dr. Vaughan Cornish has tried for years to get observations of the actual size attained by waves under different conditions. In Lake Geneva the extreme height is 9 ft, the length of the wave being 46 statute miles. On Lake Michigan waves as high as 22½ feet had been measured, with a wave length of 300 feet, though on large enclosed seas like the Mediterranean or the still larger semi enclosed China sea it was not found that the increase in the size of the waves went on so rapidly, although they were a little larger. The interfering cause was that they were reaching the limit of the size of the atmospheric depressions, which caused the strong winds that produced the waves.

The next considerable increase in the size of the waves was when they passed from the enclosed seas to the oceans. In the Atlantic ocean waves about 42 feet in length frequently occurred during strong gales in any positions not less than 600 nautical miles from the windward shore. The statements about waves 80 to 100 feet high encountered by the Atlantic liners are not thought to be exaggerated.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless remedy completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for stomach, liver, or kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c at Walsh Drug Co., H. R. Doesburg.

Gentlemen!

The state railroad commission is causing many roads to make improvements in their depot accommodations throughout the state and also in their freight accommodations. Some places have been found to be twenty-five years behind the times. News Item.

We would like to call the commissioners attention to Holland's depot. Not alone is it 25 years behind the times but is a burning shame in a city where it takes freight houses two blocks long to accommodate the freight business. But the shame of it all is the miserable sanitary conditions that exist. The waiting rooms at times are unbearable. Not alone do we wish to call the commissioners attention to these facts but also that of the board of health of this city.

Delivering the Goods

Now when the G. A. R. committee has made guarantees to handle the big G. A. R. convention in the proper way it is up to them to believe the goods. The committee, however did not make the promises on its own responsibility but knowing that the citizens of Holland are loyal and believing that the honor of housing the big convention would not be too big a slice for the city, they did all in their power to secure the convention, and got it.

However, things do not come out exactly as they had been figured to come out. The fact that subscriptions to defray the expenses connected with the convention are coming in so frightfully slow, opens the eyes of the committee men. They have miscalculated on the generosity not only, but also on the loyalty and patriotism of Holland's citizens. The fact that the committee must slash the tentative expense, and handle the conventions in the cheapest possible way makes some think that it had been better for Holland not to have secured the big G. A. R. turn out.

Then at least we would not look small in the eyes of the state which are now turned upon us. In fact, a city of half the size of Holland would have raised its needed fund at the snap of a finger, and that without grudging and grumbling.

Now, what are we to do. A few weeks ago the News predicted that with reasonable tact the funds could be easily raised. The time for the convention is almost here and there is not half enough money.

The committee has been compelled to resort to a one dollar subscription list to be circulated among working men as well as the business men.

Such a measure does not look well. If we have no national pride, for heavens sake let us at least save the honor of the city and give the old fellows a welcome and entertainment that will linger in their minds the rest of their short days. These men have done enough for you. Gettysburg, the Wilderness Shilo and Vicksburg were no picnic grounds. The war was not a simple digging down in the pocket for a dollar. The old soldiers risked their life and their all. They did not think of a Fourth of July dress parade while they were fighting. They simply fought for a great principle, the memory of which act ought to make men willing today to receive these old fighters in their homes as guests of honor.

Holland is going to have the convention. It is a big thing and by handling it well we can show patriotism and keep up the good reputation of our city. We can do it by digging down in our pockets deeper than the dollar mark. Let us deliver the goods.

The Saugatuck Commercial of last week gives the following particulars of the loss of the scow D. G. Wright off South Haven. She capsized off Pier Cove and the entire crew consisting of seven men were drowned. Three bodies have already been recovered. The Wright was a vessel of 125 tons and valued at $5,000. She was owned by Miller Bros. & Foster of Chicago. The cargo consisted of pickets and laths and was owned by H. D. Moore of Saugatuck. The vessel and cargo are a total loss. No insurance.

The Graafschap farmers, or some of them, find themselves in somewhat of a quandary. A few weeks ago an effort to organize a branch of the Patrons of Husbandry in that locality was knocked in the head, owing to the hostile sentiment entertained against secret societies in general, and which makes it more than doubtful if an organization of Patrons will ever be established there. Nevertheless, the Graafschap grangers felt somewhat charmed about the "ten percent" feature of this Order and a self appointed committee from among them have set about to see whether they cannot secure the benefits of a similar arrangement without being tied to the Patrons as an organization. The stores in Graafschap and some in this city, have been approached by this committee, pledging them the trade of from 100 to 200 families, provided goods would be sold to them cheaper than to others. Thus far they have not succeeded in making any such connection. While the organization of P. of H's may not be favorably received in Graafschap, the movement is meeting with better success north of here. At West Olive, in the Groenewold and New Holland districts, and in the district two miles north of Zeeland, it is said that the Patrons have obtained a footing and a permanent organization. Their first object will be to get a store where they can buy upon the above terms.

It landed full on the face and caused an ugly wound. Dr. Kremers dressed the wound which though painful is not serious enough to keep Mr. Slagh away from his business. Hollandsche Gastmaal

Monday evening, April 18 fifteen Holland Dutch ministers sat down to a genuine Dutch dinner at the Second Reformed church chapel, Somerville, N. J., by invitation of the pastor, Rev. A. A. Pfanstiel, who with Rev. Broek of Plainfield, originated the project. The guests were graduates of Hope college, and all hailed from the West, but now fill pulpits in and around New York. Nothing but Dutch was spoken. For every English word or sentence used the offender was to put five cents into the missionary box of the Ladies' Missionary society. A dispensation, however, was necessary before the evening was over for release from the rule, for ministers' salaries are limited as to nickels and the English words used were unlimited.

The dinner was beautifully served, a very handsome centerpiece of genuine Dutch tulips being presented by David Smith and the head florist of Mr. Duke's park. Mr. Pfanstiel acted as toastmaster and those present say it was positively amusing to see the painful expression on his face as he tried to talk Dutch—at least when it came to finding expression of technical Dutch terms. He was such a serious offender in using English that his salary is largely used up.

The hilarity was great during the evening when the Dutch stories were told. The following responded to toasts: Rev. H. E. Nies of Paterson, Rev. A. Vennema of Passaic, Rev. Henry Uterwick of Rutherford, who paid a beautiful tribute to the ladies who served, and Pres. G. J. Kollen of Hope college.—Christian Intelligencer.

Unintentional Omission

The last legislature which passed a law exempting soldiers from taxation who had served in the civil war evidently lost sight of the Mexican war, and made no provision for these soldiers. Some are pointing out the law as being unfair, although the omission was unintentional.

A good many seem to think all the veterans of the Mexican war are dead but an examination of recent letters to the attorney general's office of Mexican war veterans inquiring about this law, would convince them otherwise.

An examination of this law which exempts all civil war veterans and their widows from paying taxes on their homes, providing the value does not exceed $1,200, reveals the fact that absolutely no provision was made for the Mexican war veterans.

A Five-ton Broadside

In the five turrets of the Florida, a battleship just launched, will be ten 12-inch guns, which can be trained upon a single point and hurl 10,000 pounds of metal at one discharge. All the ships with which Dewey fought the battle of Manila bay had a combined broadside only half as powerful and the effective was less by several miles. Though our battleships of twelve years ago destroyed the Spanish fleet at Santiago almost without receiving a scratch they are antiquated now and completely outclassed by the leviathans lately added to the navy. The Florida would be equivalent to a great fortress for defense, and a speed of 21 knots is an indication of what she would be expected to do offensively. With the Panama Canal open she could steam from New York to San Francisco or Honolulu inside of two weeks, an illustration of the extent to which the waterway across the isthmus will add to the available strength of the navy. Our battle ships will count for more than twice as much when the canal is completed.

Forty-eight years ago an improvised armored vessel, covered with railroad iron, steamed down the James, took any position it preferred and sank some of the best wooden ships of the United States, whose shots in reply were harmless. Another armored vessel, the Monitor, happened to be there in the nick of time, and finally drove off the iron-plated assailant. That was the starting point of modern navies, in which the Florida is now believed to be the most massive and heavily armed ship afloat. She may never fire a hostile shot. Probably she may best be considered a preventive of war, and in that way easily be worth the $10,000,000 she has cost. Four other battleships of this class, all greater than the original Dreadnought are an addition to the United States navy, assuring that its preparedness has been carefully provided for by recent administrations.

A Test For Any Samson

There is a theatrical manager in New York who, in his early days, piloted a small circus through the villages of the middle west.

"At that time" he says, "I was featuring an Italian as 'Biancuali, the strong man from Rome.' One day traveling from Kansas City to Omaha in a day coach, the strong man and myself were seated just ahead of a tall man with side whiskers. Whether or not the man overheard our conversation, I am unable to say, but after a time he leaned over and tapped my companion on the shoulder, saying: 'Excuse me, sir, but are you not Biancuali, the Strong Man?'"

"Biancuali admitted the soft impeachment.

"Is it true that you can lift two and a half tons in harness?"

"Yes."

"Can you hold two men at arms length?"

"I can."

"And put up 500 pounds with one arm?"

"Yes."

"Then," concluded the man with the side whiskers, "would you kindly raise this car window for me?"

The Girls of Crockery Creek

Years ago, and not so many years ago after all, the girls of Crockery Creek were famed throughout the country for their fun and merriment and the sunshine they brought into the world. These girls have grown to womanhood now, but they are just as jolly and just as sunny. Not long ago a party of these girls got together in Grand Rapids and organized the "Girls of Crockery Creek club," in memory of the good times they had when all were girls at Crockery Creek. All attended the village school and many of them were bride-maids at the weddings of the others.

The first meeting of the club was held last week at the home of Mrs. J. Dickinson at Comstock park, near Grand Rapids. It was decided to hold two meetings each year. Mrs. Mary Landon Bryant of Grand Rapids is president and Mrs. Jennie Fosget Dickinson, secretary. The other members of the club are Mrs. Ettie Gordon Richmond, Mrs. Rebecca Bird Smith of Sparta, Mrs. Senora Spoon Sinclair and Mrs. Mary Bryant Morris, Grand Rapids; Mrs. Mary Maxfield Hunter and Mrs. Jennie Gibbs of Coperville, Mrs. Kate Nichols Taylor and Mrs. Emma Green Richmond of Nunica and Mrs. Clara Penoyer Roost of Holland.

Water Wagon the Place for Man

The water wagon is the hope of the healthy man. The body of man is about four-fifth water. Even the teeth, the hardest and densest tissue of the body, contain about 4 percent water. The bones contain about 14 percent of water. The muscles are three-quarters water. Water makes up 97 percent of the gastric juice, 98 percent of the perspiration and 99 percent of the saliva. All the physiologic changes take place in a watery solution.

Lack of water is nearly always a factor in the production of disorders. Without an abundance of pure water as part of the treatment all measures such as diet, exercises and drugs fail. For a person in average condition two quarts of pure water daily are thought to suffice. In cases of disease this amount may be increased to three, four or more quarts a day.

To one unaccustomed to the free drinking of water it is not always easy to form the habit. A good practical rule given by Dr. W. R. Latson is to make a habit of taking ten or twelve tumblerful of water every day. This should be taken on rising, on retiring and between meals. Little or no fluid should be taken with the meal.

Yates and Miss Yates, delegate, and alternate to the National convention at Washington, D. C. A highly interesting and instructive report was given. The Daughters then adjourned to the dining room and thirty did ample justice to a fine New England dinner. After declaring Mrs. Parr to be an ideal hostess, a very happy crowd departed for an enjoyable trip home.

The Automobile and the Horse

It was hard to believe that, with the enormous increase in the number of automobiles, the horse is so splendidly holding his own. According to a report lying before us the total number of horses in the United States today is over 21,000,000. This is 400,000 more than the previous year. It is claimed that they are worth, on an average, $10 more per head than a year ago.

All lovers of the horse must rejoice to see the auto-truck relieving him of some of his cruel loads, but let no man dream the automobile will supplant him. Men are born every day who love horses, not because then can serve them as beasts of burden or means of transportation but because they are horses. These would rather drive an intelligent well-bred horse five miles than steer an automobile from Maine to California over the finest boulevard ever built.

Notes of Sport

League baseball in Holland became a certain prospect when last Monday night the board of public works granted a committee of citizens the right to fence in the baseball grounds at 19th street and erect a grandstand.

More than $500 has been raised for the purpose already and it will be only a matter of a few days before the entire amount necessary for the carrying out of the plans of the committee will be collected. The fence will be the property of the city and the grounds will be held available for any team that wishes to make use of it. The contract and regulations for the same are now being drawn up by Pres. A. Vischer, A. R. Bosman and Supt. James De Young.

May 28 will see the formal opening of the grounds for league base, when the bleachers, the fencing in of the grounds and the leveling of the diamond shall have been completed.

Work will be started immediately upon the new baseball park and assurances are that it will be concluded in time for the play.

Doyle will be holding a meeting in Grand Rapids tonight at the Crathmore Hotel at which time he will consider applications of such semi-pro players of Grand Rapids who may seem ripe for league ball. Manager Doyle declares that he will have his club in practice by next Monday and fully ready to open the season, probably at Muskegon, on the succeeding Saturday.

Manager De Baker of the Muskegon West Michigan State league club knowing that only a winning team will play here, is getting the best bunch of players together that he can and be inside of the city limit. Among those chosen are; Karsten, the Zeeland star; Brooks and Tromp of Muskegon. Jim Kelley, who is acting as scout for DeBaker, is in Saginaw today after three more infielders and one outfielder.

Eddie Wosinski, who meets Jack Gulliver of Benton Harbor

What promises to be the greatest boxing match ever staged in this city will come off next Friday night, May 27, when Jack Gulliver the shifty Benton Harbor lightweight, better known as Howard Morrows stable mate, will meet Eddie Wosinski of Grand Rapids in a 6 round bout at 128, both men to weigh in at 3 o'clock on day of show. Eddie Wosinski has been coming very fast since last seen here and is recognized by well known critics as one of the surest comers that was ever turned out in Michigan.

In Gulliver he meets one of the toughest boys in the game, a man who fights every moment, with a hard punch in both hands. He has met some of the toughest men in the game, such as Benny Yanger the Tip-ton slasher, Jack O'Keef, Clarence Forbes and Charlie Neary. Up to date he has been in 48 bouts, winning 40, drawing in 4 and losing 4 by decisions, but has never been knocked out. He is under the management of Tommy Ryan, the retired middleweight champ of the world. A fine preliminary card will also be put on in which Young Exo meets Young Smith in a 6 rd affair at 124. In the semi final Jimmie McCarthy meets Kuleman in 6 rounds at 133. Frank Burns of Boyne City will referee. Several blocks of seats have already been spoken for by out of town parties. The show starts at 8:30 at Lyceum rink. Tickets on sale at Cummings Billiard hall, Blom & Sutton, Miller's restaurant, Smith's Billiard hall, Fant's barber shop.

After an especially favorable year in athletics the present officers of the Hope college Athletic association retired and the following chosen to fill their places: Director of athletics, John Levan; secretary, H. Heuisinger; treasurer, H. Stronks; football mgr., E. Brooks; baseball mgr., J. Weurding; basketball manager, M. den Herder; track manager, H. Stegeman; tennis manager, C. Hollman.

The Cubs will play the Independents Saturday afternoon on the 19th street diamond. Game called at three o'clock. Rinkus, star twirler for the Cubs held down the Hope College team without a run for 7 innings last Saturday; but a couple costly errors in the final rounds gave Hope the game.

Charles Doyle of Muskegon, formerly of Marion, Ind., is to manage the Holland team in the Michigan State League, Enos having been offered a better inducement in the line of salary from the sporting goods house he was working for. Negotiations were made yesterday for the former manager of the fast Marion independent team to take charge of Starting in the half mile relay race with ten other schools at Lansing, the Holland high school team made a good showing in finishing fourth. Shelby, Coldwater, Traverse City and Holland finishing in order. The local team was made up of Brouwer, Smith, Lacey and Hadden.

Hadden and Lacey were entered in the 100 yard dash, Hadden winning his preliminary heat in 10 3/5 and losing out in the second round by inches. The team was accompanied by Principal Stephenson and all enjoyed the trip. Next Saturday the combined baseball and track teams go to Bangor to take part in a triangular field day.

With the lead alternating between the two teams until the eighth inning, the Independents managed to scrape in Saturday with a victory in their game with the Houseman & Jones team of Grand Rapids, the final score being 7 to 6. Shaw started in for the locals and pitched five innings, when Woldering finished out the game. The game was an interesting one and it was not until the eighth inning when the score stood 6 to 5 against them, that the Independents came into the lead, by scoring two runs. The game was played on the 19th street grounds before a small crowd.

On the campus diamond the Hope nine shut out the Holland Cubs 4 to 0 in a fast game, neither team scoring a run until the eighth inning. Levan pitched for the college and allowed but five hits, which were well scattered. Saturday the college will play its first intercollegiate against the Kalamazoo Normal team.

Hope wins Relay Race

Between the densely packed rows of eager spectators, who lined Eighth street for two blocks down, Captain Stegeman of the Hope relay team, finished the last lap of the 32 mile course three minutes ahead of Capt. VandeVisse of Grand Rapids, thereby winning the splendid trophy donated by H. VanTongeren.

H. Anker of Hope started the race at Grand Rapids with O. VandeVisse as his opponent. Both men made good time but the lanky Hope runner finished a good fifty yards ahead of his opponent when reaching the relay station. Verhulst, the next Hope man, made even a better showing and easily outrunning his man handed the message to Verburg 3 1/2 ahead of his opponent. The race then went through the Hudsonville hills to Zutphen, each Hope man holding his own. The race remained an easy feature for the local runners, each man practically putting in good time. At no time came the Grand Rapids men within half a mile of the Hope men. When Mart Verburg ran through Zeeland the Grand Rapids man was still below the horizon, and Capt. Stegeman finished being not at all pressed by his opponent.

The time made by the various Hope men is as follows: Anker 16:50; Verhulst 17:20; J. Verburg 19:00; Tanis 18:35; Tillema 20:30; Tellman 20:00; Dalenburg 19:15; G. Stegeman 19:15; M. Verburg, 19:15 H. Stegeman 19:30.

A bonfire and the accustomed speeches Saturday night fittingly closed the victory.

Next Saturday the annual Hope college field day will be held upon the campus. The contest is open for the various classes, the class running up the greatest number of points will have its name engraved upon the splendid Wykhuizen-Karremans trophy which is now exhibited in VanRaalte hall. The contestants will enter the usual events. A bicycle race around the campus will be a somewhat unusual feature.

The noise which the Grand Haven high school athletes are blowing around is somewhat lacking in grounds by omitting the logical sequence of cause and effect. The collegians would wish very much to have the Havenites on their diamond but in view of the fact that the score of the last game played at Grand Haven was something like 38 to 4, when the locals were only "playing round the bases, it seems very dubious whether there would be much honor left for them, if they should come at a time when Levan's arm muscle is as hard as iron, and every one batting 99 percent better than last April.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

THE POWER OF A WOMAN.

Matthew 14:1-12—May 22.

"He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."—Proverbs 16:32.

JOHN THE BAPTIST, because of his boldness and courage as a servant and mouth-piece of God, was a thorn in the side of King Herod and his courtiers and the great of that day. Herod and the High Priests and the more prominent people considered John the Baptist and Jesus fanatics. Doubtless they would have made away with them quickly had it not been for their fears of the people. The common people heard the Master gladly and declared that "never man spake like this man;" the same common people believed John to be a prophet.

We will not undertake to say whether John exceeded his commission or not when he reproved the King and Queen. As a rule, however, we believe it to be the wiser plan for Christian ministers to speak forth the Word of God fearlessly and plainly, without attempting personal application—allowing each hearer to apply the message to his own heart. Herodias fortunately represents an uncommon class of women. She was governed by boundless ambition. She married the man who, for a time, seemed in line for promotion to a kingly position. But when the title was given by the Roman Emperor to his brother, Herod Antipas, she inveigled the latter by her charms and, deserting her husband, became Herodias the "Queen." John the Baptist, while fearlessly denouncing sin, felt led to make a personal application of his teachings to King Herod.

Some have assumed that Herod had requested John the Baptist to visit the palace and give a talk on the reforms he advocated, and that, in this connection, the prophet pointed out the wrong of the King's conduct, saying that it was not in harmony with the Divine Law that he was living with his brother Philip's wife. Herodias heard of this and realized that if the King accepted such counsel it would mean that herself and her beautiful daughter, Salome, would become outcasts from the palace and be without a home, as it would be impossible for her to return to her husband, Philip. The power of Herodias over the King led to John's imprisonment. Her next move was to effect his death, for she realized her position insecure so long as he lived. John's fearless speech might yet influence the King.

This ambitious, wicked, artful woman plotted murder, and the King's birthday celebration was her opportunity. She forwarded the arrangements for a great banquet, at which were present the nobles and princes of the land. Wine was in plentiful supply. She well knew that the wine would inflame the passions and relax the moral tone of the company. So she had her beautiful daughter, Salome, specially prepared and attired, and instructed her to perform one of the obscene dances common to the east on such occasions, but not commonly indulged in except by the lower classes, and never by princesses. The occasion was to be a rare one. It was intended to influence the King exactly as it did—to admiration and a boastful offer to the girl of any gift she would ask. The plan succeeded to the letter. The King's words were, "Ask of me a gift, even to the half of my Kingdom"—possibly a suggestion of his willingness to make her his true Queen.

Following her mother's instructions, Salome reported the matter at once, inquiring of the mother what gifts she should request. We can better imagine than describe the surprise of the girl when told by the mother to request "the head of John the Baptist on a platter." We may conceive what a disappointment this would mean; what visions of the beautiful and precious things it would destroy!—with what surprise Salome must have asked as to why this gruesome gift should be given. We can imagine the mother hissing to her that the death of John the Baptist was the most necessary thing in the world for them both—that without it any day might see them buried from conditions of affluence into the abyss of degradation and poverty. We can imagine her saying, "This, Salome, is the priceless gift which you must ask from the King." And the power of the woman over both the King and the daughter was wonderfully exemplified in the result. Salome went gaily again amongst the company of nobles whom she had charmed, and in a loud voice accepted the King's offer of whatever she would choose, even to the half of his Kingdom, and stated that accordingly, the gift should be the head of the Prophet on a platter.

The King's conscience was not quite dead. He was grieved; but his pride as well as his subservience to Herodias controlled him. He reasoned that for a King to give his word of honor in the hearing of nobles and princes and then to repudiate it, would be to him a lasting shame. Ah, what an illustration of how "the fear of man bringeth a snare!" What a lesson we read in this—that a man's first responsibility is to his God and to his conscience, whatever the cost. Tradition has it that Herod was haunted with fear the remainder of his days. It is in line with this that when he heard of Jesus and his mighty works, he expressed the conviction that somehow, the spirit or power of John had passed to Jesus.

Our lesson brings before us two strong and two weak characters. John and Herodias were strong characters, the one for the right and for God, the other for selfish ambition and sinful indulgence of it. The one swayed the nation for their good and prepared the worthy remnant to receive Messiah's message. The other swayed the King and her daughter to infamy, murder and disgrace, and terribly blackened her own character. John's reward lies in the future, when he, as a member of the Ancient-Worthy class, will come forth to a "better resurrection"—to be associated with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the earthly phase of the Millennial Kingdom.

Herodias, surely continuously unhappy, finally persuaded the King to a course which led to his banishment, in which she shared. Her future, according to the Bible, will be a resurrection to shame and lasting contempt. (Daniel 12:2.) Inasmuch as she degraded herself and missed grand opportunities, we may assuredly know that she will come forth in the Millennium greatly handicapped by her improper course in the present life. It may take centuries, even under the favorable conditions of Christ's Kingdom, for such a deeply-dyed character to purge itself of the shame and the lasting contempt and to rise gradually to true nobility and human perfection, or, falling so to do, to die the Second Death.

A Typical Pioneer Preacher—He Colonized Them First at Holland

"The early history of many communities is marked by a veritable 'reign of terror,' the people living in constant fear of the Indians, which was only too well grounded in fact, for raids and massacres were common and were executed with a savage cruelty greatly to be dreaded. but in the annals of Holland and vicinity we find no such bloody page and the credit is due largely to the labors and influence of one man.

The subject of this sketch, Rev. George Nelson Smith, was born at Swanton, Vt., October 25, 1807. When he was six years old his parents were converted and he became imbued with religious feeling uncommon in one of his age. As a boy, he worked on the farm in summer and attended the district school in winter. When 20 years of age he went to learn the trade of millwright with two men who were Universalists and who tried to graft their doctrine upon young Smith. His childhood training rendered their attempts futile, but their efforts set him to studying the scriptures for himself, resulting in his conversion in May, 1828, at the age of 21 years. On the 6th day of July following he joined the Congregational church of Swanton. From this time he was impressed with the thought that he ought to qualify for the ministry. This increased until, in December of the same year, he left his trade and commenced study, first at the district school, then at an uncle's in Canada, and later began Latin at St. Albans academy. Here he met Miss Arvilla Almira Powers who became his wife July 4, 1830, before he had completed his studies.

In April, 1832, he began attending theological lectures by Rev. Worthington Smith, but about this time the young couple caught the western fever and decided to emigrate, starting for Michigan territory May 8, 1833, accompanied by a sister of Mrs. Smith (afterward Mrs. Daniel McMartin of Kalamazoo county.) The journey was made by lake and canal, and on May 22 they arrived at Detroit, with but $1.06 in cash, which Mr. Smith supplemented by selling his watch for $5.50. The trip from Detroit to Gull Prairie, Kalamazoo county, by horseback, took seven days, making a total of twenty-one days from St. Albans, Vt., at a cost of $70. The trip could be made now in about as many hours.

During the next three years Mr. Smith worked at carpentry for $1 per day when not engaged in teaching; but there was not much building being done in western Michigan at that time. (Marshall had but two houses and they were of logs; Jackson contained but one hotel, and that small and poor; Detroit was a slow going town.) They were at work upon the first buildings of the University of Michigan. Kalamazoo was not the large and beautiful place it is now, and Grand Rapids was scarcely known.

Fever and ague flourished and were added to other hardships and privations of the time, but all were not sufficient to drive the young man from his determination to enter the ministry. To be ordained was the goal of his ambition, and he worked days and studied nights, and on Feb. 5, 1836, he was licensed to preach by the presbytery at St. Joseph, Mich., at Bronson after eight years of struggle, and on Feb. 14 he preached his first sermon at Comstock, Kalamazoo county. While stationed in Kalamazoo and Allegan counties he organized Congregational churches at Gull prairie (now Richland), Otsego, Gunplain and other places, in all of which he preached. For years he preached three times each Sunday, often to congregations miles apart.

On Jan. 13, 1837, he was appointed to do missionary work and stationed at what is now Plainwell, with a salary of $200 supplemented by voluntary contributions. Feb. 1 he attended and took an important part in a state convention of the Michigan Total Abstinence society at Marshall, and which convention was also attended by some of the most influential men of the state, including Judge F. J. Littlejohn.

Mr. Smith also attended and assisted in organizing the first Congregational Asso. of Michigan at Richland, March 2, 1837. The constitution and bond of union which was there adopted, with scarcely any alteration, was drafted by him. About one month later Mr. Smith was ordained by this association, which made him the first Congregational clergyman ordained in this state, Rev. James Ballard being the second.

During the year 1837 the conviction grew strong upon Mr. Smith that he was called to labor in behalf of the Indians. In January, 1838, a meeting of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians was called at Allegan to consider a plan for their colonization. Mr. Smith was foremost in this movement; and a goodly number of whites interested in the welfare of the Indians, attended.

Mrs. A. A. Powers of Northport, Mich., daughter of Mr. Smith, has been examining her father's diaries of this period, and in a recent letter she mentions the following well known persons as meeting in council with the Indians at her father's house: J. B. Bailey, Dr. O. D. Goodrich, Judge F. J. Littlejohn, Judge John R. Kellogg, Dr. Upjohn of Kalamazoo, and Mr. Spencer Marsh, also Mr. Newberry and Rev. James Ballard. "The Western Society of Michigan to Benefit Indians" was organized, of which Mr. Smith was appointed general agent the following June. He at once went to work with a will, day and night, even to the neglect of his family, traveling much, visiting various tribes and raising means whenever possible. On May 10, 1838, he moved his family from Plainfield (now call Plainwell) to Allegan, and I am told by Mr. Elijah Blackman that on the way they stopped at the home of Mr. Jasper Fisk, now the Knickerbocker place, and two of the children were taken sick and died there and were buried in a fence corner, a picket fence being built to protect the graves.

By December Mr. Smith had partially organized the Indians of Allegan and Ottawa counties, and Dec. 23 preached his first sermon to the Indians in a temporary building erected for that purpose near Allegan village. Three days later he opened his first Indian school in the same building, with seven pupils at first, but more daily until the number reached 25 or 30. The exact location of the school is not known at present. Mrs. Powers, after consulting the diaries, writes that the meeting of Dec. 23 was in their own house, and that on the 30th her father "preached to the Indians in the school house and had a full house, and he speaks as though it was the schoolhouse of the village." Here he continued to preach during the winter. By spring about 300 families had joined the proposed colony and much travel was required to find a suitable place to locate much of western Michigan being unexplored from Mackinaw straits to the southern boundary. One memorable trip was by canoe from Allegan to Arbor Coche village north of Little Traverse bay. Starting on April 12, 1839, the trip occupied a month and three days, attended by many perils. A location on Black river, Ottawa county, was fully determined upon and June 2, 1839, Mr. Smith and Judge Kellogg and eight Indians went to Ionia to enter land for their mission. Soon they removed to the place on Black Lake, Mr. Smith bringing his family August 2. "There" writes Mrs. Powers, "the schoolhouse was four miles east of the landing on Black Lake, just east of our home. The building was made of logs. There father taught school and preached to the Indians. There they suffered almost untold privations. If you could read their diaries you would shed tears, you could not help it. I can remember how we used to go up and down the river to get out to our friends, in a log canoe, and on horseback through the woods."

The position of the Indian missionary was one of much toil and little glory. He was preacher, doctor, teacher, judge and advisor general. He healed their sick, settled their disputes and educated them. His pay was small, his duties exacting, often compelling him to make long trips with the Indians, leaving his family alone sometimes for weeks at a time, many miles from a white settlement. His widow said "Sometimes my children went to bed hungry while Mr. Smith was away with the Indians. We have gone cold, too, from the same cause." He believed himself delegated by the Almighty to accomplish a greater work in enlightening the Indians than had ever yet been performed, to this end he faithfully and zealously labored, thinking of the Indians' interests by day and dreaming of it by night. It was to him a God-given mission, absorbing all the best of his life.

From 1839 to 1849 he served the Indians on Black River, but in 1847 a colony of Hollanders settled on Black Lake, near the Indians, so encroaching upon them as to make it necessary for them to go elsewhere as a matter of self protection.

Mr. Henry Cook of Allegan, who was one of the first colonists and who knew Rev. Smith and heard him preach at that time, says that the missionary told the Indians that the Hollanders were good men, but that they would clear up the land and conditions would be unfavorable for the Indians and their mode of life, that they would better take it good naturedly and find another place, for the Hollanders had come to stay. Mr. Cook tells of being in a group of Hollanders one day and meeting a number of Indians, who stepped out into the snow on each side and courteously gave the whites the road—a contrast to the savage and cruel treatment by other tribes in some other communities, and an eloquent tribute to the teachings and influence of Rev. Smith.

In 1848 Mr. Smith and some mission Indians visited Grand Traverse bay, selecting a location near the present village of Northport, on the land lying between the bay and Lake Michigan, now Lelanau county. In the meantime the government gave orders to James McLaughlin, Indian farmer, to move to Grand Traverse bay. Leaving the mouth of the Kalamazoo river May 27, 1849 in his schooner, the H. Merrill. McLaughlin stopped where Holland now is and got Mr. Smith and others. With fifteen persons on board a stormy passage was had, lasting two weeks and June 11 they rounded Cat Head point and entered Grand Traverse bay. The men, armed with axes, went ashore and began cutting logs for a house. The logs were cut for a house nineteen feet square, and they had no team to haul them together, but ropes and tackles were brought from the ship, and with the help of every man, woman and child who could pull on the ropes, the logs were gotten into place, and a few boards brought in the schooner, stuck one into a crack and the other resting on a beam, made a shelter for the beds until the Merrill could go for lumber to the head of the bay, now Traverse City, where Capt. Boardman had established a mill.

After building a shelter, the 4th of July was at hand. They resolved to celebrate but had no flag. A sailor who came with them on the schooner, produced a red flannel shirt which he combined with a sheet, producing very gratifying results. They spent the day picnicking on what is now Marian Island.

About fifty families of Indians soon followed, and a village was laid out called Wakazooville, in honor of a noted Indian chief. "Wakaboo trail" at Macatawa park was also named in his honor. The village is now known as Northport. In the center of the village was the log schoolhouse built by Mr. Smith.

During the first years here he gave his time and talents to the Indians, but afterwards he organized a Congregational church among the whites at Northport, of which he was pastor many years, but always maintaining his interest and influence among the Indians, preaching to them at the New Mission and other places, visiting in their homes and continuing his Christian labors up to a short time before his death. This occurred April 5, 1881, after a brief illness brought on by long physical exposure.

When the Grand Traverse region was one county, Mr. Smith was elected judge of probate, and though not a popular politician he held at one time and another nearly all the township and county offices. He was upright from principle, and very outspoken in his opposition to what was wrong and questionable. Educated a Calvinist he was as rigid and unyielding in his views as the eternal hills. Being thoroughly conscientious, no personal nor family duty was neglected from the first of his career. As a husband and father he was kind, yet stern, demanding implicit obedience after the old patriarchal fashion. His outspoken, fearless manner of assailing from the pulpit what he considered wrong, sometimes got him into serious trouble. Believing slavery to be unnatural and wholly wrong, Mr. Smith early took an active part in opposing it, being largely instrumental in organizing the Allegan County Anti-Slavery society in 1838. He made antagonism to slavery and intemperance part of his religion, and fought them early and late. In his later years he became more liberal in his views, though no less uncompromising with evil.

Considered intellectually, Mr. Smith was very much above the average American. He was a student always, and in spite of having spent his entire life in the backwoods and among the Indians he kept well up to the times in which he lived. There were few, if any, subjects in the whole range of art, science and literature upon which he was not able to converse intelligently. He possessed a logical analytical mind. His sermons might not be considered forcible, but they were plain thoughtful and to the point always, and therefore effective. His writings and work demonstrate that he venerated his creator and freely gave his life to his service. He permitted absolutely nothing to swerve him from his idea of duty growing directly or indirectly out of his calling. His Puritan education sometimes made him appear harsh and unrelenting, but to those who knew him best his heart was as tender as a child's and as affectionate. A man of strong character, wholly given to God, he was truly a typical pioneer preacher, one of the "Makers of Michigan," and we of today are thankful for him and his work.

He is an example of what a strong man can accomplish and what difficulties he can overcome when his life is inspired by the high ideal of co-operating with the Almighty and carrying out his will. A weaker man could not have done his work, he could not have done alone; but he could say with Paul, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."—Allegan Gazette.

Van Mourick of Amsterdam, designer of the magnificent Sytzeama home in Zeeland, has recovered from his recent illness with smallpox and the quarantine has been lifted from the house on McKinley street in which he and his wife have been residing during his illness, which was a mild attack. They left at once for Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Waffle aged respectively 84 and 83 years, were admitted to the hospital ward in the soldier's home at Grand Rapids. The sensational tragedy of two years ago when their son Jasper shot his sister and later his own body was found in a cornfield, proved such a terrible shock to the aged couple that their health has since been failing rapidly.

William Krichter of Holland is spending 15 days in the county jail, at the request of Justice Miles of this city. Krichter was picked up at the steamboat dock soused to the ears, and put up at the jail and locked up to sleep it off. When he informed the judge that getting drunk was his usual occupation the court decided that it would knock him out of his job for fifteen days at least.

The steamer Argo, purchased recently by the Northern Michigan Steamship company from the underwriters, will ply between Chicago and Milwaukee under the flag of the Chicago, Racine & Milwaukee line. The Argo has a double cabin with berths for more than 300 passengers. More freight room will be provided on the main deck by the removal of the steward's and purser's offices to the cabin. The improvements will mean an expenditure of $10,000.

Miss Cathrine Countiss will offer at the Majestic Theatre, Grand Rapids, beginning Sunday night, May 22, one of the most powerful and emotional among modern dramas. "Mothers" is founded upon Ouida's famous romance that has been translated into many languages and read by hundreds of thousands. It is a drama of fashionable life, vivid, vital, virile, full of tensely stirring scenes and complications and pulsating with emotions.

Miss Countiss will have exceptionally fine opportunity for the strong sympathetic acting in which she most deeply appeals to hundreds of local friends and admirers. The recent New York revivals of plays like "Caste" and "Jim the Penman" is deeply significant of the lasting value of well tried dramas that stand the acid test of time and are so vastly superior to the freak productions of the past two or three years so quickly forgotten. No finer emotional play than "Mothers" was ever written and it is as fascinating to day as when originally produced by Wallacks famous company in New York with Rose Coghlan in the leading role.

Opportunity on the Farm

The number of automobiles owned by farmers is growing rapidly. Out of 10,000 automobiles in Iowa, 5,000 are owned by farmers. Kansas farmers spent $3,200,000 for automobiles during 1909, and $2,750,000 in 1908. In one Nebraska town of 800 population, 40 automobiles were sold last year to farmers in the town. Careful estimates of the number of automobiles owned by farmers in the entire United States is 76,000.

Nowadays there is no more cry about lack of opportunity on the farm. Sixteen automobile makers are advertising automobiles to the farmers in the 450 farm papers of the country, and most of them are arguing that the automobile will keep the boy on the farm and make life more livable for the wife, whose dreary round of labor has been the pity of the country.

Now the farmer with an automobile can take his family for an evening call or lecture, without using his horses. He can now go to church on Sunday more regularly; he can visit distant relatives and friends more frequently; he can go to town oftener and more quickly. One Dakota farmer who is extremely fond of hunting, but lives 40 miles from the game district, takes his son with him on Saturday during the season and comes back Sunday night with a deer or two slung across the radiator and bubbling over with tales of his luck.
